

Hizb al-'Adl wa al-Tanmiyya (Party of Justice and Development) (PJD), Tunisia, 2011, Translated by Zakaria Merdi, Translated for the Islamic Political Party Platform Project, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, <http://kurzman.unc.edu/islamic-parties>. [4/19/14].

1 - political growth:

A real democracy is based on:

- Practice the absolute sovereignty of the people on the political authorities.
- Differentiate between executive and legislative and judicial.
- The real balance of powers of the three mentioned above.
- Work to ensure the dignity and freedom of the citizens.
- Strengthening the fourth power and protect the independence of any subordination of political power or of capital invested in media institutions and the promotion of objective journalism .

2 - Economic growth: We adopt the liberal position which is composed of :

- Justice in all areas of the economy and in the collection.
- Equitable distribution of wealth.
- The reduction of disparities in living standards between the layers of the society.
- The development of knowledge, skills and scientific research in harmony with the economic initiative while maintaining a public service provided by the state to citizens and able to provide a decent living for the weak layers.

3 - social growth: growth depends on the healthy development of the family which is the pillar of the community, and it supports the liberation of women from the image held by the ignorant and which are:

- Sexual exploitation of women as a commodity.
- Use of cheap labor and exploited obedient and ugly.
- hiring women for the sake of physical advertising to promote goods and services.

And necessary for us to return dignity and respect for women to strengthen their role and the role of what a sheriff at the heart of family life and the social, economic and political.

And not the success of any social growth without a sound education for children within the family, and without education ensures install modern Arab-Islamic identity, and without listening to the positive aspirations of young people.

In conclusion, our vision aimed at building a modern state and democracy that does not ignore Arab-Islamic identity and open the outer perimeter and rich intellectual capabilities and a guarantor of its citizens pride and dignity and freedom, and secure a better tomorrow for emerging generations.
